

Fellow Hope citizen complained to me the other day about the number of thoughtless motorists you meet right here in your own town.

Seems he had been out to a public function the night before and while driving home encountered one car after another which refused to throw down its top-beam headlights. Its customary for the other fellow to do this when you signal him—but folks weren't answering on this particular night.

Around town it's to be presumed people are driving slowly and not paying too close attention to their lights. But inherent thoughtlessness comes out plain enough when they are traveling fast on the open highway. Many a driver comes up behind a slow car with his top-beam flooding the windshield and blinding the man ahead. A thoughtful man cuts his lights down before passing, just as he expects the passed car to do the same for him until he has gone beyond the danger zone.

In this respect the commercial truck drivers are the safest and most courteous operators on the road. They drive by a strict routine and look out for the other fellow's safety more than he does himself.

Another citizen's gripe is the way people leave bottles lying around after they've gulped the contents—a beer bottle dropped in someone's yard. Farm folks who complain about city people going out their way and leaving a mess after a picnic ought to come to town and find out where ill manners are born.

The art of learning to live in large groups with due regard for the other fellow's rights isn't an easy one. But if people were smart enough to know how to live together in cities without any trouble at all then they would be smart enough also to know how to head off panics and wars.

And they would always be fortunate in politics. But the way it actually is: There's nobody smarter than a voter on election day—and nobody dumber to hear him tell it than the guy he elected, about a year later.

Kidnap-Robbers to Get Hearing Monday

Texarkana Sept. 7 —(P)—Trial of two men on charges of kidnaping and robbing a Texarkana taxicab driver has been set for next Monday in Miller county circuit court.

Bonds of $7,500 were fixed yesterday for Dalton Thomas, 32, fugitive from an Alabama prison farm, and A.D. Fowler, 34, of Annona, Tex.

The men are charged with kidnaping, robbery and grand larceny in the abduction of Bob Cross, who later escaped at Hope, Ark. They were arrested Tuesday night at a roadblock near Glenwood, Ark.

Soldier Shot by Reds in Berlin

Berlin, Sept. 7 —(P)—An American soldier was shot by a German Communist policeman when his car crashed into a barricade at the Russian zone border outside the outskirts of Berlin last night, U.S. authorities reported today.

The extent of the soldier's injury was not now because he went to the Russian side of the zone and is believed still held there.

U.S. authorities are investigating the incident and seeking to obtain the soldier's release.

His name was withheld pending positive identification and notification of kin.

Hope, Stamps Open Season Tonight at 8

Hope and Stamps meet tonight at 8 o'clock in Hammond Stadium in the opening football game of the season. A large crowd is expected.

From all indications the game will be close all the way. The visitors are heavier than their Double AA division opponents who are also inexperienced.

According to weights of the starting lineups the Yellowjackets will have a 14-pound per man advantage, all in the line. The two backfields round out at 149 pounds per man.

From end-to-end the visitors are heavy—the lightest man tipping the scales at 160 pounds. Several of the boys were members of last year's district winning eleven.

Hope has several boys who lettered last season but only a few were regular starters. For the most part the entire team is light with little experience.

Officials for tonight's contest are: Geo. P. Sanders, referee; Teddy Jones, linesman; Bill McClendon, umpire; and Fletcher Harrison, field judge.

Hope Man Is Promoted to Rank of Lt.-Col.

Mitchell Air Force Base, N. Y. — David A. Washburn of Hope, Ark., and Levittown, N. Y., has been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. His Air Force assignment is supervisor of the Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps instruction program at Continental Air Command Headquarters here.

The 46-year-old engineer was graduated from Texas A & M University in 1920 when he received his engineering degree as well as Army Reserve commission.

Colonel Washburn was employed as a plant supervisor for the Arkansas Pipeline Corporation in Shreveport, La., for fifteen years before his call to active duty in 1941.

Assigned to the Army's Corps of Engineers, he was stationed with the Army's European Theatre headquarters in London from 1943 to 1944. He was then transferred to the Quartermaster Office of the European command and remained there until he returned to the United States in 1945.

After studying at the Quartermaster and Command and General Staff School, Colonel Washburn was assigned to the Quartermaster General's Office in Washington, D. C., as a petroleum engineer specialist.

From 1947 to 1949, he served in the same specialty at the 14th Air Force headquarters at Orlando Air Force Base, Fla. By 1950 he was made commanding officer of the 81st Air Base Group at Kirtland Air Base, N. M. He assumed his current duties in late 1950.

Married to the former Miss Mary Shell of Hope Ark., Colonel Washburn lives with his wife and seven-year-old son at 54 Hyeinth Road, Levittown, N. Y.

His sister Mrs. W. J. B. Chandler resides in Shreveport, La.

Says Russia Trying for Space Setup

London Sept. 7 —(P)—A German rocket engineer declared today Russia is racing the west on a project to set up a military space station 300 miles from the surface of the earth.

H. H. Koelle of Stuttgart, secretary of the German space research society said it is "an open secret" among rocket experts that "the west and east are both working on this project with the greatest energy."

The 36-year-old engineer told the second international congress on astronautics — space navigation — that such an artificial moon could be placed in the sky at a cost of around half a billion dollars.

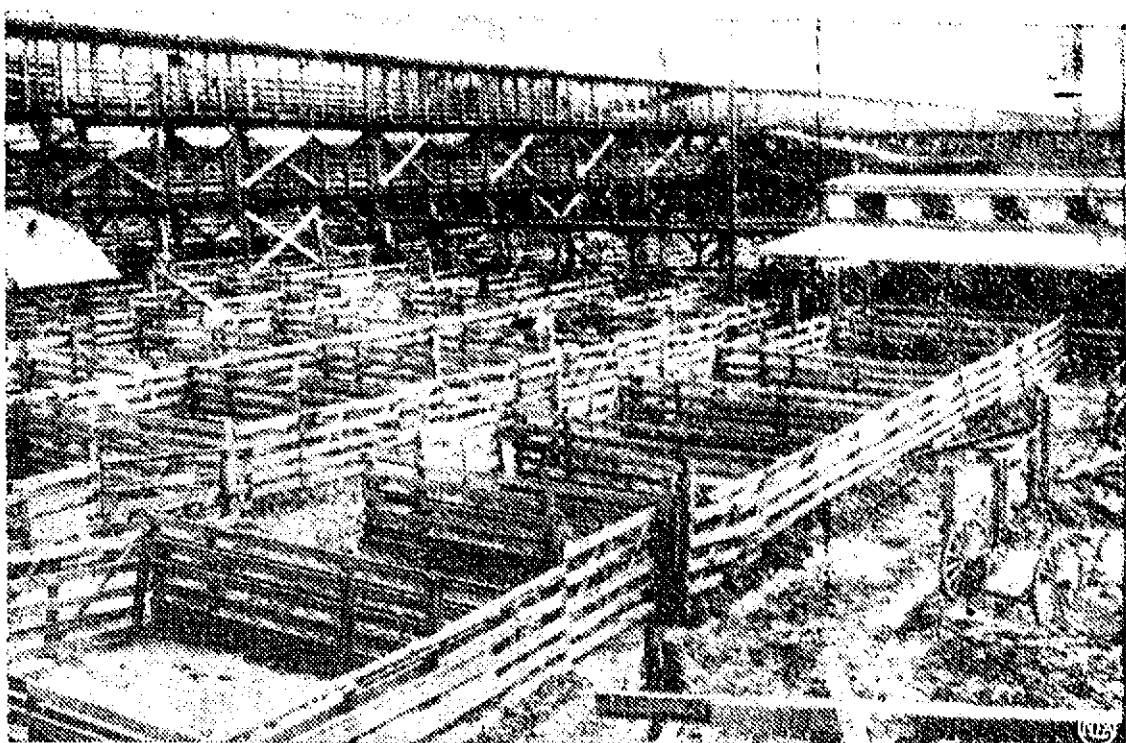

First inkling of the fantastic plan to create a new heavenly body came in the annual report of the late James Forrestal, then the U. S. defense secretary, in December, 1948.

The report disclosed that an "earth satellite vehicle program" on which the army, navy and air force had made separate studies had been coordinated that year under America's central guided missiles project.

Any developments since then have been top secret.

Speculation on MacArthur, Politically

By RELMAN MORIN

Cleveland, Sept. 7 —(P)—A new wave of speculation about General Douglas MacArthur's political intentions rose today following a speech in which he again attacked the Truman administration and said its leaders are not to be trusted.

At the same time, MacArthur made a remark that brought applause and laughter from Ohioans, some of whom thought he was referring to Senator Robert Taft.

He held praised Ohio's contributions to "leadership, past and contemporary." Then, pausing and smiling, he said:

"Indications multiply that this leadership may even increase in the not too distant future."

After the speech, the general's aide, Major General Courtney Whitney declined to amplify when a reporter asked him if the statement referred to Taft.

"You'll have to do your own guessing," Whitney said.

MacArthur's program today called for visits to three factories in the Cleveland area.

He also planned to place a wreath on the grave of Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in Woodrow Wilson's administration.

MacArthur, his wife, and the other members of his party were scheduled to leave for New York by air in the early afternoon.

The general drew round after round of applause last night from an audience estimated by police at 9,300 in the public auditorium. The building had accommodations for 10,700.

He was interrupted 31 times in a 32-minute speech, sometimes with shouted answers to his questions, occasionally by laughter, and most often by clapping and cheering.

Most of the reactions came to his criticisms of the administration's financial policies, and his attacks on the state department.

He cited the state department as an example of what he called a "steady drift toward totalitarian rule." He said the department is assuming the character of a "prime ministry."

The federal government, as a whole he said, is moving toward adopting a "paternalistic relationship" to the private individual, and is guilty of the "suppression of personal liberties."

Speaking of the nation's leaders, he asked: "By what faith can we find hope in those whose past judgments so grievously erred? Can they now be blindly trusted?"

Cries of "no, no" came from the audience.

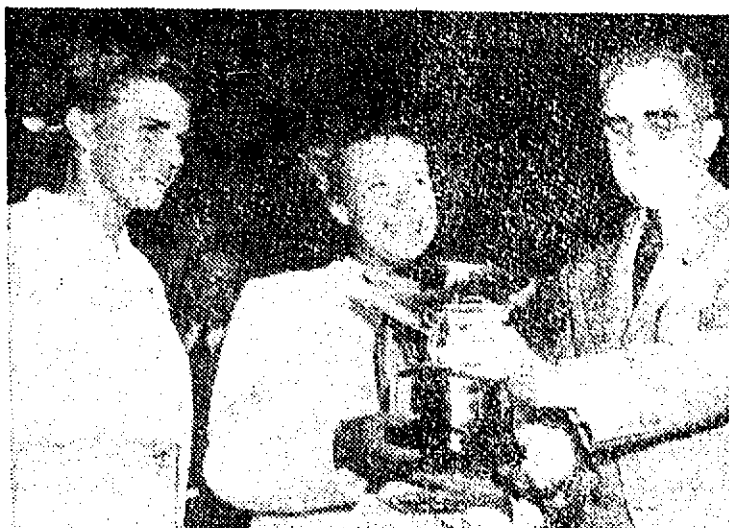

MacArthur had to wait, and then he said: "There are those of us who from neither partisan affiliation or with political purpose think not." Another explosion of applause stopped him.

100 Million War Veterans May Organize a Program to Win a Real World Peace

By HAL BOYLE

New York, Sept. 7 —(P)—There are about 100,000,000 war veterans in countries outside the iron curtain.

A 36-year-old former U. S. navy bomber pilot is leading a drive to organize them in a program to win real world peace.

"The veterans were created by war and know how horrible it is," argues Elliott Newcomb. "And you can't kid them. They may be the force to end all wars."

He is secretary-general of the International Federation of War Veterans Organizations, organized in Paris late last year at the invitation of French war vets.

Nineteen nations having some 30,000,000 veterans were represented at an emergency conclave of the new Iwvo in Rome this year.

He said he had common bonds that cross national boundaries, said Newcomb. "They wanted peace, and were willing to fight for it. Our organization isn't made up of pacifists. It's a slogan is 'peace with freedom.'"

The Iwvo exchanges information about the status of veterans legislation in the different countries and is fighting for better treatment of disabled ex-warriors.

"Right now, for example," said Newcomb, "because of patent difficulties and other international barriers no amputee in any country gets the best possible artificial limb that could be made. We feel the manufacture of these prosthetic devices should be standardized internationally."

The Iwvo supports the United Nations fully and has called for a strong U. N. armed force "to suppress all military aggression wherever it might occur." It also has urged the establishment of a U. N. world development authority "to pool skills and resources for economic reconstruction."

But the veterans want to do something more dramatic to insure world peace.

"We think the diplomats are fumbling the ball," said Newcomb, a slender, dark-haired, intense man who used to sell office equipment for a living. "They pay too much attention to protocol."

"We believe the Russians are the primary cause of world tension. But we also feel that the West doesn't have a positive enough answer to the basic world problems. Being against communism isn't enough. You have to support something better."

The "World Vets"—nicknamed of the new federation—have created a nine-man commission to explore causes of tension in Europe, the middle east and far east. This commission will report back its findings and suggest remedial measures to lessen the war-threatening tensions.

Does this program sound nebulous? "It isn't nebulous," said New-comb. "We plan to put the facts in people's hands. There are 100,000,000 vets this side of the iron curtain, and with their families they come to about 250,000,000 people."

"We think that makes a hard core of leadership in the fight to stop war and protect human rights. One of his goals is to call a rally of 1,000,000 vets in Europe in a mass demonstration for a workable world peace program."

"I think that would have some effect," said Newcomb quickly. "We refuse to accept the concept that war is inevitable. Men make wars, and men can stop them."

Youth Center to Hold Party After Football Game

It was announced today by Coach Lawrence Martin Director of the Youth Center, that the first "football party" of the year would be held tonight following the Hope-Robert Stamps Yellowjackets football game.

An open house, dancing and a general get together is planned. All high school students, Stamps students, parents and interested individuals are invited.

West Beauties Take Honors in Contest

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 7 —(P)—Western beauties rode off with the honors in the second round of the Miss America pageant last night.

South Dakota's Miss Marlene Margaret Riech, 19, of Parkston won the bathing suit award and Miss Colleen Kay Hutchins, 25, of Salt Lake City took the talent trophy.

The brown-eyed blonde Miss South Dakota, who wants to be a doctor like her father, showed off her five feet seven inches and 122 pounds in a black bathing suit. She measures 35 inches at the bust, 24 at the waist and 30 at the hips.

Miss Hutchins, a graduate domestic student at the University of Utah, offered a scene from Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen". A blue-eyed blonde, she is five feet 10, weighs 143 and measures 36 at the bust, 24 at the waist and 36 at the hips. She was dressed in a royal blue velvet gown with pearls about her neck.

The western winners join two southern belles who won the first preliminary round Wednesday, piloting up precious points for the Miss America crown; the 51 contestants.

Miss Alabama, Jeanne Moody of Cherokee and Miss North Carolina, La Long Oghlam of Smithfield, were the first round winners.

The last preliminary before the finals will be held tonight.

Russian Gang May Walk Out on Treaty Meet

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

San Francisco, Sept. 7 —(P)—Embattled Andrei Gromyko and his communist cohorts may walk out of the Japanese peace treaty conference.

The third and last of a series of Red blasts at the treaty was scheduled late today. There was speculation in the American delegation that afterward the Russian, Polish and Czechoslovak delegations, badly outnumbered and outtalked here, might quit the meeting.

Predictions of a Russian walkout came both from Ambassador John Foster Dulles, second ranking U. S. delegate and Senator Bridges (R-NH), an observer. Dulles said in a radio interview last night he doubted that the Russians would sign the treaty "and they won't want to be spectators to the signing."

Bridges said he picked up his information from a foreign delegate with usually accurate intelligence. He expressed hope the report was not true because the Communists "have played the peace of the world long enough."

The treaty is scheduled to be signed tomorrow. Late this afternoon Poland's Stefan Wierzbowski insisted that Communist China should be taken by Gromyko Wednesday and is listed to speak.

RED GENERAL DIES

Moscow, Sept. 7 — (AP) — Pravda today announced the death of Col. Gen. E. A. Shchadenko, 60, veteran member of the Bolshevik party, described as "one of the outstanding builders of the Soviet army."

The communist party newspaper said Shchadenko played an important role in the Russian revolution and held many Soviet decorations.

The government will erect a monument in his honor, the paper said.

The obituary notice said he died after a long illness.

The term "flapper" originally was applied to young chicks not yet able to fly.

In China particularly disaster has struck, and it might seem that the long and fruitful work of gen-

Ultimatum

to British

Tehran, Iran, Sept. 6 —(AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's proposed ultimatum to Britain on the stalled oil talks struck a snag today when more than half the members on the lower house of parliament boycotted a session called to approve the premier's policy.

The ultimatum would give the British two weeks to reopen talks on the nationalization of the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian oil company's properties. If they refused, Iran would expel 550 British technicians remaining at the company's giant refinery at Abadan.

After vainly trying to round up the missing deputies for two hours

Mossadegh postponed the session until Sunday.

The lack of a quorum was in sharp contrast to yesterday's session of the senate which gave the premier a vote of confidence without a dissent after he said he would throw the remaining British out of Abadan if Britain refused to reopen oil talks.

The boycott of the majlis was the most serious expression of opposition to Mossadegh since he came to power last May. It was clear, the deputies feared to vote openly against the nationalistic Mossadegh

Pat Cleburne Chapter Meets Thursday

The Pat Cleburne Chapter of D. D. C. met yesterday at 2:30 for the September meeting at the club house in Emmet. As guests of Mrs. S. M. Dankey. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Graydon Anthony, Mrs. J. J. Battle, and Mrs. W. C. Whitworth.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. C. S. Lowther, president. The ritual, the salute to the Confederate Flag, and the allegiance to the American Flag was led by Mrs. A. E. Sluszer. Minutes were read by the secretary. The yearbook for the coming year were distributed. Mrs. J. M. O'Neal and Mrs. Pat Casey will be delegates to the state convention in Memphis in October. The two alternates will be Mrs. Harry Whitworth and Mrs. Fred Cook.

Mrs. Pankey and Mrs. W. W. Thompson gave the welcome to the club house. The program chairman for the afternoon, Mrs. A. W. Martin, gave an article on the "Last of Raphael Semmes."

The tea table was covered with a floor length cloth of imported linen cutwork centered with pink radiance roses. The stocker's table was covered with a forest green floor length cloth centered with late summer flowers.

Punch, open-face sandwiches, wafers, and minis were served to the forty-one members and fifteen visitors present.

Ladies Auxiliary Meets Tuesday

Ladies Auxiliary to VFW met Tuesday with entertainers from post on Sept. 4 at the club. The meeting was held in order for president, Mrs. Orel Taylor at 7:45 p. m. and Mrs. Paul Egan, chaplain, gave the opening prayer. President Taylor then turned the meeting over to Commander Dickinson who led the discussion on plans for stand at Fair Park. Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Egan was elected new member. Mrs. Roy Egan was initiated and welcomed into the auxiliary.

Mrs. Denver Dickinson gave an interesting report on her recent trip to Hot Springs when the Post gave watermelons to Army and Navy Hospital there. Mrs. John Keyes gave a report on her recent visit to the auxiliary in Santa Anna, Chile.

The meeting was closed with prayer by the chaplain. Hostesses were Mrs. Bob Burns and Mrs. Owen Bellis who served lunch, drinks, cookies, and open faced sandwiches to seventeen members present.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Harris and son, Bob, of Tusculum, Alabama are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Byers and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Patterson.

Miss Para Lee of Center Point, Ark., spent the week with her cousins, Miss Patty James.

Doctor Is Freed of Manslaughter

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 6 — (AP) — A city judge acquitted Dr. Perry E. Hewitt Jr. of manslaughter charges yesterday, ruling he believed the brain specialist was "seared" rather than drunk while treating a Texas woman who later died.

Hewitt, 41, was accused of drunkly injecting a drug known as procaine into Mrs. Shuler, 38, who, then paralyzed by her collapse, seeking to revive the woman with a slug of gin. She died Aug. 9, less than 24 hours after treatment.

City Judge J. V. Heavers dismissed the first degree manslaughter charge after a lengthy preliminary hearing. He said "in my opinion it has not been proved that a crime was committed."

Five doctors have been unanimous in stating they didn't know what caused the death of Mrs. Shuler, Heavers said.

"I don't think Dr. Hewitt has been uniformly honest in telling what happened. I believe the man got seared and extremely nervous when Mrs. Shuler failed to revive and then started drinking, not injecting," Heavers said.

The specialist testified Mrs. Shuler herself requested the drug after being injected twice the day before.

"I didn't think she needed it," he said, "yet I didn't think it would do any harm."

After Mrs. Shuler insisted on the injection, Dr. Hewitt said, he proceeded to give it to her. "She suddenly collapsed," he continued calmly, "that the needle bent."

Hewitt testified he tried three other drugs in an attempt to revive the patient then "ordered a pint of gin and gave her approximately a dram but it did nothing but ran out of her mouth."

Witnesses presented by County Attorney Ed Edmondson said that the physician appeared to be drunk in his office afterwards.

Dr. W. N. Weaver, who attended Mrs. Shuler before her death, said he saw Hewitt intoxicated some time after she was removed to the hospital.

Neither Weaver nor another state medical witness would say the dose of intracaine caused Mrs. Shuler's death. But Weaver testified "an oily embolism" found in the autopsy could have been the cause.

Intracaine, Edmondson brought out, is often mixed with an oil base.

Three other doctors took the stand later in Hewitt's behalf to discount the embolism theory.

Hewitt said afterwards he was gratified by the counts action.

"The ordeal has been most trying. I shall take a rest of some length after which I shall resume practice," he added.

The prominent specialist had suspended his $40,000-a-year practice pending outcome of the case.

Life Jack Wells Strickland of Keesler, Miss., will arrive Saturday night to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Strickland.

DOROTHY DIX

Lonely Wife

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a housewife in my late 20's with three children. My problem is loneliness. I never had many friends, even in school. My neighbors only come over to borrow something. I have moved several times, hoping to get in a more friendly neighborhood, but it's always the same story. I have everything I want, but I am lonely. I want to be interested in other people; show my interest, and it cannot fail to be reciprocated.

Answer: Almost without exceptions, everyone wants to have friends and be a friend. Partially no one will repulse your efforts to be interested in other people; show your interest, and it cannot fail to be reciprocated.

However, people will not force their friendship on you unless they're sure it's welcome. If you don't have the initiative to make the first overtures, at least be gracious when they're offered to you.

Take Some Initiative

If a neighbor comes in to borrow something, invite her in for a chat, or a morning cup of coffee. Compliment her on her children, the mother can resist that. The part job of her house, her garden, her pets—anything to show you observe and appreciate what's around you. Make yourself active in the mother's club, P. T. A., scouting or 4-H work. Above all, be interested in other people; show your interest, and it cannot fail to be reciprocated.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a young business woman and have been going with three boys off and on for the last year. None know of the

Soviet Press Says U. S. Is Ruling Treaty

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Sept. 6 (AP) — The Soviet press reported today that the United States was trying to turn the Japanese peace conference into a "rubber stamp" ceremony.

Extensive press dispatches from San Francisco, the papers and the radio complained that "large numbers" of delegations at the conference are from countries that "do nothing towards the destruction of Japanese militarism."

Tass said about one-third of the delegations were from Latin American and stressed the absence of China and the attendance of the "three puppets of Laos, Cambodia and Bao Dai's Vietnam" call in Hanoi.

Provada said the treaty prepared by the United States and Britain was in direct violation of pledges undertaken at Cairo, Yalta and Potsdam.

Tass said the Soviet government decided to participate in the conference because of its "steadfast support of peace" and in this connection desired to present real proposals for a true peace treaty.

Tass said Russia's decision to send a delegation to San Francisco "caused dismay" in American government circles. The dispatch said others until recently when my husband went out of her way to convey the news. I would like to win just one of them back, but can't decide which one. How can I come to a decision?

GLADYS

Answer: With an overabundance of male friends you should have nothing to worry about. You were wrong, of course, to go with these boys, permitting each one to assume he was the only man in your life. Now, if you don't know which of the three interests you most, I'd say none of them is the man for you. If you were in love, such a state of indecision could not exist. Why not continue making friends, having dates and enjoying life until the man comes along who is definitely the one?

Dear Miss Dix: I am 19 and have been married over a year. I am very happy except for one thing. My husband does not want children, and I do. Do you think he is being fair?

Answer: The very purpose of marriage is procreation, and a marriage without children has no fulfillment. Your husband is wrong in his attitude and unless it changes, he'll be very sorry later on. Right now he probably is too young to have the responsibility of a family and with himself, come around to your way of thinking in a short time.

Charges State Workers Using High Pressure

Hot Springs, Sept. 7 (AP) — Two state employees have been accused of using "high pressure" tactics in their search for illegal signatures on petitions to refer the new state purchasing act to the general election.

A Hot Springs woman, Mrs. Gladys Thornton, who circulated one of the petitions, said the two men tried to "high pressure" her into signing an affidavit that the American newspapers admitted this.

The Soviet papers said American ruling circles saw in advance that the Soviet proposals would "arouse warm support among the peoples of all countries." And as a consequence are trying to "turn" the conference into a purely formal procedure of treaty signing.

The Russian dispatches from San Francisco said the American delegation was seeking to "hinder" any real discussion of the treaty and planned to conclude the conference in four days. They said Australian Delegate Percy C. Spender, named vice chairman of the conference, was put in the chair with power to take the floor away from speakers.

The dispatches gave three paragraphs to President Truman's speech opening the conference.

Tass said the president sought to picture the plans to keep American troops in Japan as a contribution to peace. Summing up, Tass said Truman's speech largely consisted of "praising the actions of the American occupation authorities in Japan and the American project for a peace treaty which, according to him, pursues the cause of peace."

Tass described Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko's speech yesterday morning as "an energetic address" in connection with Russia's unsuccessful efforts to change the rules, the dispatch said the American rules were put through "by the American voting machine."

In another dispatch from San Francisco, Tass reported "a serious conflict" developing among the delegations.

"Notwithstanding all efforts of the state department to turn the conference into an empty formality on the surface, serious conflicts are appearing. They are taking place between the state department and the countries which usually follow in its wake," it said.

On the basis of these allegedly illegal signatures, state officials are planning to ask the state supreme court to throw out the petitions.

Opponents of the purchasing act, led by John F. Wells, a Little Rock government news digest publisher, started circulating the petitions shortly after the legislature adjourned. They have obtained more than enough signatures to refer the measure to the voters.

Administration supporters of the act claim that it is designed to liberalize and simplify state purchasing procedure.

names on her petition were void. She identified the employees as Russell Brown and Louis J. Longmott. J. Brown is an investigator for the state alcoholic beverage board of control. Longmott holds a similar position with the Arkansas public service commission.

Mrs. Thornton said the two men told her that if she did not sign the affidavit she would be subpoenaed to appear before the Arkansas Supreme court.

The Hot Springs Sentinel Record quoted Mrs. Thornton as saying: "I told him (Brown) that I had no intention of signing any such affidavit and that I would vouch for every signature on the petition."

Brown and Longmott admitted asking Mrs. Thornton to sign the affidavit, but both denied they used high pressure tactics.

"I told her that if she would sign the statement, it probably would save her an appearance before the Supreme court," said Brown. He said he had found some allegedly illegal signatures on Mrs. Thornton's petition.

The hunt for illegal signatures on the petitions is being carried on by the administration of Governor McMath, which sponsored the controversial bill, Act 242 — through the last general assembly.

State Purchasing Agent Carl Parker said earlier this week that he had drafted 19 state employees to help in the search. The investigation of the petitions began in Pulaski county, where the administration claimed it found some forgeries.

Mercury Drops in Midwest

By The Associated Press
The midwest cooled off today as temperatures tumbled to near the freezing mark in some areas.
It was a frosty 33 above in Chicago, Mich., early today. Readings were in the low 40's in parts of northern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota.
The cool air extended over the upper and middle Mississippi valley, parts of the great plains and the Ohio river valley.
In contrast, it continued hot in Texas and the far southwest. Temperatures were near normal levels in the eastern states and along the Pacific coast.
Rain fell early today in the Eastern Great Lakes region, New England states, and Washington. Another shower belt extended from Oklahoma northward to eastern Montana.

Despite the old theory about the "burly bear," wasps are said to be far more intelligent and active than bees.

Russia Missed Boat on Jap Treaty

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—Writing about the Japanese peace treaty conference in San Francisco is a little like writing about Julius Caesar.

Cesar is dead and the signing of the treaty was ancient history before it started. It was fixed, certain and in the bag before the delegates met to make sure the Russians couldn't stop it.

But when the signing is a foregone conclusion, no one is wise enough to predict the eventual outcome of what has happened in San Francisco. The United States has taken few steps in its history more important than this.

Japan is to be free again. Free to remain and make its own way. And we have a new and important ally. That's for the present. We hope it works out all right, that in the end Japan won't go on another rampage, that she will remain an ally, and that she won't eventually go Communist or tie up with the Communists.

This treaty with Japan couldn't be more far-reaching and unpredictable if it had suddenly turned Germany loose again, with guns in her hand.

Future trouble started on the first full day of the conference when Russia's Andrei Gromyko, who knew from the beginning he couldn't block the treaty but went through the motions, made it clear Russia won't recognize the treaty.

The irony in all these Russian screams of pain about the treaty is that they missed the boat on Japan. They outsmarted themselves when they had a chance two years ago to work out a deal with the U. S. to keep Japan disarmed for a quarter of a century.

Back in 1946, before American-Russian relations went rotten, the U. S. made a proposal to which, as the diplomats say with their typical understatement, the Russians were "unresponsive."

In that year the U. S. proposed that this country, Russia, Britain and China (that was before China went Communist) consider a treaty to keep Japan disarmed for 25 years. Russia dead-panned it and nothing happened.

In the next year, 1947, the U. S. proposed a preliminary conference of the nations represented on the Far Eastern Commission (FEC) to discuss a Japanese peace treaty.

(The nations on the FEC, all of whom had some interest in Japan's future, were the U. S., Russia, Britain, France, China, Canada, Australia, India, Netherlands, New Zealand and the Philippines.)

(The FEC was created in the first place as a sort of supervisory body to see that Japan lived up to its surrender terms.)

But Russia didn't want all those nations to have a voice in shaping effort and for all. In Europe, as in Asia, that is our constant and exclusive preoccupation."

At another point he asked: "Why this persistent belittlement, why this relentless suspicion, why this brutal refusal to accept our sincerity and our good faith?"

Schuman went a step beyond the defensive alliances which the United States is putting together in the Pacific — with Japan, with the Philippines and with Australia and New Zealand — and suggested an overall treaty of mutual assistance.

a treaty no matter how much interest they had in Japan. She suggested instead that only the U. S., Russia, Britain and China consider shaping a treaty. Russia could have vetoed anything the other three nations wanted. The U. S. wouldn't go for that.

A year ago, after the Korean war started and this country realized it had to build its Pacific defenses fast, the U. S. went to work on a treaty, consulted with other nations, including the Russians who didn't like it, made some changes to suit the others, and came up with the treaty which the U. S. likes generally even though not all the others signing it like all parts of it.

This Lad Goes for Hamburgers

New York, Sept. 1 (AP)—Hamburgers, mashed potatoes and peas is a sound, although not sumptuous meal to most of us.
But to 16-year-old Robert Linsin it is a banquet.
Robert, a native of Newburgh, N. Y., was born without an esophagus — the tube conveying food from the mouth of the stomach. He had to be fed through a metal tube inserted into his stomach — only mushy or liquid foods, never solids.

A series of operations has provided the youth with a makeshift esophagus. It was made at the Columbia-Presbyterian medical center here.

In a week, Robert expects to go home to Marlboro, N. Y., where he is a high school junior.

That's why his meal yesterday — of solid hamburger, mashed po-
